RESPONSE OF CHIROPRACTORS FOR WELLNESS CARE PAC
AND TERRY A. RONDBERG, AS TREASURER
TO THE COMPLAINT OF JAMES C. SMITH

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(1) and 11 C.F.R. § 111.6, Respondents Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC ("CWC PAC") and Terry A. Rondberg, as Treasurer of CWC PAC ("Dr. Rondberg") respectfully submit this response to the Complaint filed by James C. Smith, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit 1. The Complaint has no basis in law or fact and should therefore be dismissed by the Federal Election Commission ("Commission").

INTRODUCTION

The Complaint alleges that CWC PAC, which is registered with the Commission as a non-connected political committee, is actually functioning as separate segregated fund connected to the World Chiropractic Alliance ("WCA"). To support this allegation, the Complaint asserts: (1) that WCA solicited contributions to CWC PAC on its website and (2) that Dr. Rondberg solicited contributions to CWC PAC at a WCA event. CWC PAC is organized and operated as a non-connected political committee pursuant to 11 C.F.R. § 100.5(a). It has received nothing of value from WCA for which it has not paid fair market value. As such, neither CWC PAC, nor

244 520 61 42

Dr. Rondberg have violated any of the provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act (“FECA”). The Commission should find that there is no reason to believe the allegations in the complaint and dismiss it.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. Dr. Rondberg’s Activities

Dr. Rondberg is a practicing chiropractor licensed by the state of California. (Declaration of Terry A. Rondberg ¶ 3 (“Rondberg Decl.”) (attached as Exhibit 2).) He is a prominent member of the chiropractic community who is actively involved in the many political issues that surround the practice of chiropractics. (Id.) Because of his political interests, in addition to his work as a chiropractor and businessman, Dr. Rondberg has been involved in a variety of different organizations, on both a formal and an informal basis, in order to be an outspoken advocate for a variety of different chiropractic constituencies. (Id.)

Dr. Rondberg is the president of the World Chiropractic Alliance (“WCA”), a nonprofit professional association that is exempt from taxation pursuant to Section 501(c)(6) of the Internal Revue Code. (Id. ¶ 4.) He founded the World Chiropractic Alliance (“WCA”) in 1989 in order to unite members of the chiropractic profession who have similar ideas of how to better the chiropractic profession. The WCA is governed by a board of directors, of which Dr. Rondberg is a member. (Id.)

Dr. Rondberg has also formed an ad hoc coalition of a number of different chiropractic organizations to advance the interests of the chiropractic profession by lobbying the United States Congress on a variety of issues important to the chiropractic community. (Id. ¶ 5.) The coalition does not have any standing membership and does not incur any expenses or raise any income on its own. (Id.)

24-19-025-473

B. The Decision to Create CWC PAC

Given his interest in the chiropractic profession, at the beginning of 2004, Dr. Rondberg decided that in addition to his legislative efforts, he was interested in electing and retaining Members of Congress who have philosophies similar to his regarding chiropractic care for patients. (Id. ¶ 6.) Therefore, he decided that the chiropractic community needed a political committee with which to make contributions to such candidates. Dr. Rondberg first consulted with the Board of Directors of the WCA to ascertain whether the WCA should create a connected political committee. (Id.) The Board of directors and Dr. Rondberg decided that the WCA membership was not sufficient to support a political committee and decided not to create a connected political committee. (Id.)

Given his prominence in the chiropractic community, Dr. Rondberg decided to create a non-connected political committee. (Id.) Carefully studying the FECA and the Commission's regulations, he determined that such a committee would have to fund all of its efforts with money raised subject to the prohibitions and limitations of the FECA. (Id.) Because such a committee cannot accept corporate contributions, including in-kind contributions, Dr. Rondberg understood that a non-connected political committee would have to pay for all resources it obtained from corporations. (Id.) Chief among those resources would be advertising to conduct fundraising for a political committee. Therefore, Dr. Rondberg determined that the political committee would have to purchase any advertising space at fair market value from various corporations. (Id.)

After careful consideration of all the limits the FECA imposes on non-connected committees, Dr. Rondberg established the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC. (Id. ¶ 7.) On March 5, 2004, CWC PAC filed a statement of organization with the Commission, establishing itself as a non-connected political committee (a copy of FEC Form 1 is attached as Exhibit 3). As a non-connected PAC, CWC PAC does not receive any financial support from any organizations. It raises all of its money pursuant to the FECA in amounts of $5,000 or less per individual contributor per year. It does not accept corporate contributions or contributions from foreign nationals. (Id.)

ARGUMENT

The Complaint alleges that WCA is the connected organization of CWC PAC even though CWC PAC is registered with the Commission as a nonconnected political committee. The Commission's regulations define a connected organization as "any organization which is not a political committee but which directly or indirectly establishes, administers, or financially supports a political committee." 11 C.F.R. § 100.6(a). WCA in no way established, administered, or financially supported CWC PAC. First, CWC PAC paid a usual and normal charge for the email advertisement in question. Second, neither CWC PAC nor Dr. Rondberg made use of any corporate resources when promoting the CWC PAC in Washington.

A. CWC PAC Paid the Usual and Normal Charge for Advertising in the HealthWatch Newsletter.

Because the WCA produces publications that reach a number of chiropractic professionals, Dr. Rondberg decided to purchase advertising space in The Chiropractic Journal, a printed publication mailed to members of the chiropractic community, as well as space in various email publications that the WCA produces. (Id. ¶ 8.) Because WCA sells its advertising space to any organization that does not espouse views contradictory to those of WCA, it agreed to sell CWC PAC advertising space on terms that are materially identical to those it offers other organizations. (Declaration of Linda Bevel ¶ 2 ("Bevel Decl.") (attached as Exhibit 3).) On April 4, 2004, Dr. Rondberg, as treasurer of the CWC PAC, entered into a contract with the WCA for a series of one-half page advertisements in The Chiropractic Journal and several email advertisements in the WCANews.com HealthWatch Newsletter (“HealthWatch”). (Rondberg Decl. ¶ 8; Bevel Decl. ¶ 3.) Using money that was contributed to the CWC PAC pursuant to the prohibitions and limitations of the FECA, CWC PAC paid $ 3,269.00 to the WCA for that advertising space. This payment is reflected on Schedule B of the May 20, 2004 Monthly Report (a copy of which is attached as Exhibit 4).

On April 28, 2004, the first email advertising for CWC PAC ran in the HealthWatch newsletter. (Rondberg Decl. ¶ 9.) This advertisement is the first item referred to in the Complaint to evidence the fact that WCA was acting as the connected organization of CWC PAC. Although the Complaint refers to a web site, the site is an archive of the HealthWatch newsletters. That is, all of the HealthWatch email messages remain on the WCA web site in exactly the form in which they were sent. A copy of the HealthWatch newsletter in email form is attached as Exhibit 5 and a copy of the archived HealthWatch newsletter is attached as Exhibit 6.

The advertisement is clearly separate from the content of the newsletter. As is clearly visible from the color printouts in Exhibits 5 and 6, the CWC PAC solicitation advertisement appeared in a light blue box, which contrasts with the yellow background of the newsletter. The text of the solicitation also appears in a different font than the editorial content. Although there is a generic reference to the topic of the newsletter, this is similar to other contextual advertising that the Internet offers. See, e.g., Exhibit 7 at 3 (showing an online article from Washingtonpost.com about the Fourth of July fireworks show on the Mall and three advertisement links for fireworks related merchandise). As noted in the Complaint, the advertisement paid for by CWC PAC included a link to a website operated by CWC PAC for the express purpose of collecting contributions via credit card. CWC PAC contracted with an independent third-party to operate this website. See April 20, 2004 Report to FEC Sched. B (attached as Exhibit 8) (showing payment to Campaign Solutions for web site expenses).

If WCA had provided the solicitation in question free of charge, then WCA would have been facilitating a contribution to CWC PAC, which would be tantamount to providing financial support as a connected organization. See 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(f)(1) (prohibiting the facilitation of contributions as a form of corporate contribution). However, “[a] corporation does not facilitate the making of a contribution to a candidate or political committee if it provides goods or services in the ordinary course of business as a commercial vendor in accordance with 11 C.F.R. part 116 at the usual and normal charge.” Id. Part 116 then defines commercial vendor as, “any persons providing goods or services to a candidate or political committee whose usual and normal business involves the sale, rental, lease or provision of those goods or services.” Id. § 116.1(c).

As explained above, CWC PAC paid for advertisements to appear in electronic newsletters and in newspapers. WCA has an established policy to sell advertising space to any entity that wishes to place an advertisement that is “congruent with WCA’s stated mission and goals.” (Bevel Decl. ¶ 2). Therefore, WCA was acting as a commercial vendor, pursuant to 11 C.F.R. § 116.1. Furthermore, the terms of the advertising agreement were “commercially reasonable for WCA and [were] similar in all material aspects to terms that WCA would provide to other organizations.” Id. ¶ 4. Thus, WCA sold the advertising space to CWC PAC at “the usual and normal charge.” The advertising in no way caused WCA to facilitate a contribution to CWC PAC. As such, WCA was not acting as the connected organization of CWC PAC as alleged in the Complaint.

B. Dr. Rondberg Acted in his Personal Capacity at The Coalition Meeting and No WCA Resources Were Used to Solicit Contributions to CWC PAC.

Dr. Rondberg and other prominent members of the chiropractic profession organized a program in Washington, DC for those who participate in the ad hoc coalition of chiropractors who share similar legislative concerns. (Rondberg Decl. ¶ 11.) Those who attended the event included members of WCA, the International Chiropractic Association, and other members of the profession. (Id.) On April 29, 2004, the coalition held a reception for those attending the legislative meeting at the J.W. Marriott Hotel in Washington, D.C. Because the reception included a cash bar, the hotel did not charge for the room space involved. (Id.)

As one of the founders of the coalition, Dr. Rondberg served as the Master of Ceremonies. He made clear that although he was the President of the WCA, he was acting as a private individual working to advance the legislative agenda of the chiropractic community that evening. (Id.) To that end, he had a number of different individuals speak, including many who are not WCA members. (Id.)

At one point during the evening, Dr. Rondberg discussed the fact that he had created a PAC for the purpose of supporting candidates who shared his beliefs in what was important for the chiropractic community. (Id.) Given his diverse audience, he was very clear that this was not a WCA PAC, but a political committee that he had formed for like-minded members of the chiropractic community. (Id.) He was very clear that he was acting in his capacity as an individual and not as president of the WCA when he made this announcement. (Id.)

In order for Dr. Rondberg's solicitation to cause WCA to become the connected organization of CWC PAC, WCA would have had to have provided some form of support to CWC PAC. Yet, there was no cost to WCA for the room. Dr. Rondberg clearly was acting in an individual capacity and not as president of WCA when he discussed CWC PAC. He was very clear, in fact, that this was not a WCA PAC. As such, WCA provided nothing of value to this solicitation.

In sum, CWC PAC and Dr. Rondberg as its treasurer have carefully conducted their activities to maintain the independence of CWC PAC. Because CWC PAC has paid a commercially reasonable price for advertising space from the WCA, it has acted as a non-connected committee. As such, there have been absolutely no violations of the FECA; the Commission should find no reason to believe the unfounded allegations in the Complaint and close this MUR.

FUTURE COMPLAINTS

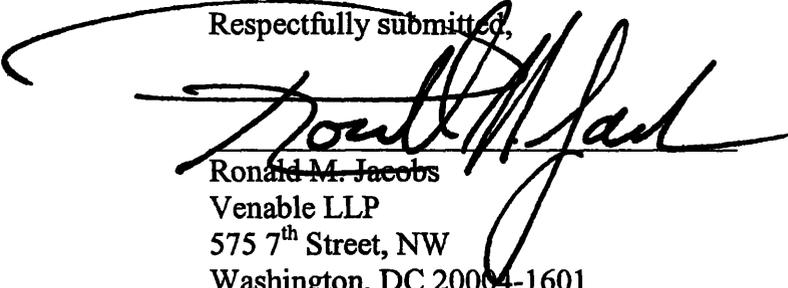

Given that he is a prominent and outspoken member of the chiropractic community, Dr. Rondberg has been the subject of a number of different personal attacks. The Complaint filed by James C. Smith is just one example of such attacks. Mr. Smith has repeatedly harassed and challenged Dr. Rondberg, as evidenced by his website www.StopRondber.org, has alerted a number of individuals about this Complaint and urged them to file similar complaints with the Commission. Given the fact that CWC PAC has demonstrated that it has not violated the FECA, it respectfully moves the Commission to consolidate any additional complaints based on the assertion that WCA is serving as a connected organization of CWC PAC with this Matter Under Review and, based on this submission, find no reason to believe that a violation has occurred and close the file. Should the Commission treat any letters based on the same facts as this Complaint as separate MURs, CWC PAC will be forced to expend its resources, which are constrained by the prohibitions and limitations of the FECA, for legal fees rather than for making contributions to candidates or for funding additional solicitations.

CONCLUSION

For the forgoing reasons, pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(1) the Commission should find that there is no reason to believe the allegations in the Complaint and close the file.

To Whom It May Concern:

I, James C. Smith (complainant) would like to register a formal complaint with the Federal Election Commission against the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC and its treasurer and custodian of records, Terry Rondberg, D.C. (respondent). The methods of solicitation executed by Dr. Rondberg and his Political Action Committee (Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC) are in direct violation of current campaign finance law and I request that the Federal Election Commission investigate this matter closely.

It is my understanding that under campaign finance law, of which the Federal Election Commission is the governing body, the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC operating as a non-connected political action committee, is prohibited from raising PAC contributions through a connected organization. In utmost disregard for this campaign finance law regulation, Dr. Rondberg, president and founder of the World Chiropractic Alliance (WCA), is soliciting PAC contributions on the WCA website (attachment A) and it is my understanding that Dr. Rondberg promoted his PAC at the WCA Legislative Summit last week in Washington, DC.

By promoting the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC on the WCA website and at WCA functions, Dr. Rondberg clearly is defining the WCA as the connected organization, a violation of the defining characteristic of a non-connected political action committee.

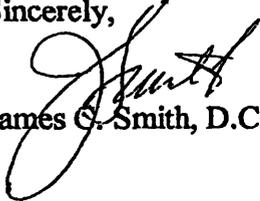

For your information, Rondberg has a prior similar incident of illegal campaign contributions in which he was found guilty and fined $6,840. You can logon to www.chiroweb.com/archives/09/24/07.html to read "WCA President Admits to Violating Arizona Campaign Contribution Laws" that appeared in a professional newspaper and revealed Rondberg's illegal money-laundering activity.

1874 520 91 42

Dr. Rondberg is once again attempting to dupe the public and the Federal government by registering the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC as a non-connected political action committee, then he blatantly connects this PAC to his WCA. It is obvious that Dr. Rondberg only established the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC as a non-connected political action committee to have the ability to solicit contributions from the general public instead of the limited WCA membership. In my opinion, Dr. Rondberg is clearly deceiving the public by violating federal election commission regulations to promote the WCA agenda.

Thank you for your time and I appreciate your investigation into this matter.

Sincerely,

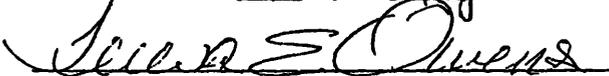

James C. Smith, D.C.

WCA to push for 'direct access' in VA through new bill

The World Chiropractic Alliance (WCA) has thrown its full support behind a bill introduced by California representative Bob Filner that may do what the Veterans Affairs Chiropractic Advisory Committee (CAC) failed to do: provide veterans with direct access to doctors of chiropractic.

The bill (HR 4051, "Better Access to Chiropractors To Keep Our Veterans Healthy Act) directs the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to permit eligible veterans to receive care "on a direct access basis at the election of the eligible veteran," and specifies that "The Secretary shall not discriminate among licensed health-care providers in the determination of needed services." Filner that may do what the Veterans Affairs Chiropractic Advisory Committee (CAC) failed to do: provide veterans with direct access to doctors of chiropractic.

The bill (HR 4051, "Better Access to Chiropractors To Keep Our Veterans Healthy Act) directs the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to permit eligible veterans to receive care "on a direct access basis at the election of the eligible veteran," and specifies that "The Secretary shall not discriminate among licensed health-care providers in the determination of needed services." The bill also includes preventative health services among the services to be provided by chiropractors.

The CAC's final recommendations included a provision that allowed veterans to see a chiropractor only after a consultation with their primary medical provider. Only two members of the CAC voted for direct access, arguing that the long-standing bias against chiropractors by medical doctors could make it nearly impossible for the veterans to see a DC. Dr. Leon Fischer of the WCA and Dr. Michael McLean of the International Chiropractors Association (ICA) voted for direct access.

Voicing against direct access were the three doctors nominated by and/or signed with the American Chiropractic Association (ACA): Dr. Rick McMichael, D.C., the ACA's Ohio Delegate; Cynthia Vaughn, D.C., president and executive director of the Texas Board of Chiropractic Examiners and partner in the Chiropractic & Spine Center of Austin with James D. Help Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC elect and support officials who will protect chiropractic principles and uphold B. J. Palmer's "Sacred Trust." Our PAC supports candidates who will work for pro-chiropractic public policy and who recognize the importance of chiropractic as the world's largest and growing form of alternative health care.

It's vital that all doctors of chiropractic support those elected officials who will promote chiropractic in federal work place, develop public policies that will protect the unique role of chiropractic, and advocate federally funded subluxation-based chiropractic. DECLARATION OF TERRY A. RONDBERG

I, Terry A. Rondberg, do hereby certify and swear as follows:

1. I am over the age of eighteen (18) and am competent to make this Declaration. The statements contained in this Declaration are based on my personal knowledge.

2. I am the Treasurer of Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC ("the PAC"), a political committee registered with the Federal Election Commission.

3. I am a licensed chiropractor in the state of California. In addition to being a practicing chiropractor, I am involved in a number of different business entities that are related to the chiropractic profession, including an insurance company.

4. I am also president of the World Chiropractic Alliance ("WCA"), a nonprofit corporation exempt from taxation pursuant to Section 501(c)(6) of the Internal Revenue Code.

5. As a member of the chiropractic profession, I am concerned about state and national healthcare policies the impact chiropractors. To help chiropractors achieve a positive legal environment, I have formed a coalition of chiropractic organizations that is dedicated to supporting federal and state legislation. The coalition of organizations is an ad hoc group, with little formal structure and no income or expenses of its own.

6. To further my interest in securing a positive environment for chiropractors, I decided that it was important to create a political action committee to help elect and retain candidates that share my concerns for chiropractors. After carefully considering the various options available to me, including a discussion with the board of directors of the WCA, I decided that the option that allowed me the greatest flexibility was to create a non-connected political committee. The WCA board of directors, of which I am a member, decided that it was not in its best interest to form a connected political committee because it has a limited membership and could not raise sufficient funds for a workable political committee. Both the WCA board and I understood that this decision meant that the WCA could not provide, and a nonconnected political committee could not accept, any resources or financial contributions from WCA or any other corporate entity.

7. On March 5, 2004, I formed the PAC, which is not funded by any organization and does not receive any services from any organization. All income for the PAC is comprised of contributions from individuals who are citizens of the United States that is raised in increments of no more than $5,000 per person per year.

8. In order to publicize the PAC and solicit contributions from the chiropractic community, I purchased advertising space for the PAC from the WCA's publication, The Chiropractic Journal along with space in WCA's email newsletter. To that end, on April 1, 2004, as treasurer of the PAC, I signed a contract with the WCA for $3,269.00. On the same day, the PAC sent a check for this amount to the WCA. The contract to purchase advertisements entitles the PAC to advertising in The Chiropractic Journal and to space in different email newsletters that the WCA sends.

9. On April 28, 2004, the PAC used its first paid email placement to solicit funds for the PAC. The Healthwatch Newsletter included a sidebar advertisement, paid for as part of the contract with WCA, that urged readers to click on the link provided and make a contribution to the PAC.

10. The PAC contracted with Bard Enterprises to design its web site and solicitation materials. On April 4, 2004, the PAC paid Bard Enterprises $210.00 for the services it provided to the PAC.

11. On April 29, 2004, the WCA, the International Chiropractic Association, and other groups that are part of the coalition that I have organized led held a legislative day in Washington, DC. There was an evening reception at the J.W. Marriott Hotel for the coalition. The hotel provided a cash bar and the hotel did not charge for the use of the room. During that event, I, as an individual, promoted the PAC to those in attendance. I specifically stated that this was not a WCA PAC but a PAC for the chiropractic community and that I was specifically speaking in my role as a PAC official and not in any other capacity. I encouraged those in attendance to make contributions by visiting the PAC's web site. At no time did I suggest that I was acting as the president of the WCA and at no time did I suggest that the PAC was for the use of the WCA. Neither the WCA nor any other entity incurred any charges for the event that evening.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

1. I am over the age of eighteen (18) and am competent to make this Declaration. The statements contained in this Declaration are based on my personal knowledge.

2. I am employed by the World Chiropractic Alliance (“WCA”) and The Chiropractic Journal. In that role, I sell advertising space to various entities that wish to place advertisements in the different publications that the WCA produces. Typically, such advertising appears in the printed voice of the WCA, The Chiropractic Journal and may also include space in the WCA’s email newsletters. Companies or other organizations that wish to advertise in the WCA’s publications can negotiate the specific locations and timing of their advertisements, but the message must be congruent with the WCA’s stated mission and goals.

3. On April 1, 2003, I prepared a contract for the Chiropractors for Wellness Care PAC (“the PAC”). The contract provided the PAC with advertising space in the Chiropractic Journal, the WCA’s printed publication, and also email advertising in various email newsletters that the WCA sends out. The PAC sent WCA a check for $3,269.00, the full price of the contract, which WCA deposited into its bank account.

WCA to push for 'direct access' in VA through new bill

The World Chiropractic Alliance (WCA) has thrown its full support behind a bill introduced by California representative Bob Filner that may do what the Veterans Affairs Chiropractic Advisory Committee (CAC) failed to do: provide veterans with direct access to doctors of chiropractic.

The bill (HR 4051, "Better Access to Chiropractors To Keep Our Veterans Healthy Act) directs the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to permit eligible veterans to receive care "on a direct access basis at the election of the eligible veteran," and specifies that "The Secretary shall not discriminate among licensed health-care providers in the determination of needed services." The bill also includes preventative health services among the services to be provided by chiropractors.

The CAC's final recommendations included a provision that allowed veterans to see a chiropractor only after a "consultation" with their primary medical provider. Only two members of the CAC voted for direct access, arguing that the long-standing bias against chiropractors by medical doctors could make it nearly impossible for the veterans to see a DC. Dr. Leona Fischer of the WCA and Dr. Michael McLean of the International Chiropractors Association (ICA) voted for direct access.

Voting against direct access were the three doctors nominated by and/or aligned with the American Chiropractic Association (ACA): Dr. Rick McMichael, D.C., the ACA's Ohio Delegate; Cynthia Vaughn, D.C., president and executive director of the Texas Board of Chiropractic Examiners and partner in the Chiropractic & Spine Center of Austin with James D. Edwards, D.C., former president of the ACA; and Reed C. Phillips, president of Los Angeles College of Chiropractic who served as a member of the Mercy Center Consensus.

Siding with the ACA-supported committee members was Charles Duvall, Jr., DC, president of the National Association of Chiropractic Medicine. The ACA had originally opposed Duvall's appointment, yet all chiropractors other than the WCA and ICA members voted with him on this key issue.

"This has been the goal of the WCA ever since we started working on the issue," stated WCA President Terry A. Rondberg, DC. "We were proud of Dr Fischer for holding strong to her convictions during the Committee vote, and we were shocked and dismayed by the actions of the majority of the Committee -- including DCs who were supposed to act in the best interest of the veterans and the profession.

In a letter to Rep. Filner, Dr. Rondberg stated, "This bill would provide an important benefit to American veterans, who deserve the best possible care and the freedom to choose which type of health care they receive." He pledged the support of the WCA in finding co-sponsors for the bill and helping to ensure its passage through Congress.

The ICA also came out in support of the bill.

"ICA enthusiastically supports this initiative," said Dr McLean "There is no question that veterans should have the minimum amount of bureaucracy standing between them and the care they want, and that the current status of the chiropractic program within the VA, requiring primary care referral is unacceptable to the ICA, to the profession at large, and to the veteran beneficiary."

The Federation of Straight Chiropractors and Organizations, a member of the Chiropractic Coalition with the WCA and ICA, favored the bill as well. "HR4051 will go a long way to right an injustice to our veterans. Our veterans (of which I am one) should have the right and freedom to go to the healthcare provider they choose and not have to go through a gatekeeper. The FSCO firmly supports direct access for all American veterans to receive chiropractic care and will work to support Rep. Filner's Bill," said Richard Plummer, D.C., FSCO Chairman of the Board.

Ironically, the ACA issued a statement in support of the bill as well, even though it had scrambled to justify the Committee members' votes against direct access by claiming that the gatekeeper provision was the only way to ensure chiropractic inclusion in the VA system.

In a report posted on the ACA website, Dr. McMichael explained that he and the other ACA-aligned Committee members were persuaded to vote for the gatekeeper system by Michael O'Rourke, a physician's assistant who serves as the assistant director of Veterans Health Policy with the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"... Michael O'Rourke strongly encouraged us to agree to work within the VA system in coordination with VA primary care physicians," McMichael explained. "He assured us that this was the best way to give this new service a real opportunity to work effectively for the veterans we were avowed to serve. He asked us to consider this a new day, leave the past behind and move toward the future. This is what the majority of the CAC chose to do."

In a press release distributed after it learned of Rep. Filner's bill, the ACA noted "This new bill (HR 4051) seeks to send a message to opponents of chiropractic – inside and outside of the government – that America's veterans will not be denied the chiropractic care they need and deserve."

Dr. Rondberg pointed out the incongruity of the statement.

"It's extremely odd that, when they had a chance to push for direct access within the Committee, the ACA members sided with the medical contingent to deny veterans that privilege," he stated. "Only after the profession reacted with fury at the ACA's betrayal did they suddenly become supporters of direct access. It's their way of trying to back pedal, but it's too little, too late."

The World Chiropractic Alliance will work with Rep. Filner's office to coordinate a campaign to show chiropractic support of the bill.

Months of Planning For 20 Minutes of July 4 Pyrotechnics

A pyrotechnician on July 4 gets a few perks.

There's the freedom to park a truck full of explosives in the middle of the Mall and avoid prosecution. There's the opportunity to combine skills from a trio of disciplines that rarely intersect (floral design, choreography and mortar fire). And there are those great seats for an event that each year prompts hundreds of thousands of people to jockey for position on the Mall.

The nine-man, Tennessee-based crew arranging Sunday's fireworks show has spent months working on a 20-minute display. On Monday evening they arrived in Washington and began unloading six electronic firing boards, unspooling 800,000 feet of electrical detonation wire and loading 2,600 rounds of explosives.

As in recent years, they began lining the Reflecting Pool in front of the Lincoln Memorial with mortar tubes. But this year they have shifted their location just a few yards to the west to make room for the recently opened National World War II Memorial.

"This is the best place to set up in terms of accommodating crowds," said Tom S... of Pyro Shows in LaFollette, Tenn., the fireworks company that is co...nating the show for the fourth time. "And that's the important thing -- making room for the crowds."

Those crowds will encounter an event that officials predicted would be similar to those of the past two years, with the same security concerns. Visitors will enter through 19 security checkpoints for casual screenings. In addition to officers from numerous law enforcement agencies patrolling the grounds, the U.S. Park Police and District police will monitor the Mall via security cameras.

Dwight Pettiford, acting chief of the U.S. Park Police, said he thinks people are used to heightened security screening.

"It's kind of like flying -- now when you fly, you know you're going to be screened," he said.

Several events are planned throughout the day on the Fourth, starting at 11:45 a.m. with a two-hour parade on Constitution Avenue between Seventh and 17th Streets NW. In the evening, the National Symphony Orchestra will play at 8 p.m. on the West Lawn of the U.S. Capitol. Actor Barry Bostwick will host, and guest performers will include singers Vince Gill, Amy Grant, Clay Aiken and Robin Gibb. The fireworks are scheduled to begin at 9:10 p.m.

National Park Service officials do not estimate crowd sizes, but last year 429,000 riders used the Metro system by 10 p.m. on July 4, compared with 302,000 the year before. Metro plans to operate from 7 a.m. to midnight Sunday.

One place the crowds will not be during the show is the National World War II Memorial, which will be closed to visitors Sunday and Monday. The site will be covered with fire-resistant tarpaulins to protect its surfaces from hot embers and to make cleanup easier for the fireworks crew, officials said.

The fireworks show will be set to a mix of patriotic music, ranging from John Philip Sousa marches to Beyoncé's rendition of the national anthem. Head pyrotechnician Scott Goin packaged the show, which means he choreographed the explosions to meld with the music.

"The simple way to explain it is that if they play something like 'Achy Breaky Heart,' then here come the exploding hearts," explained Stiner. "Or if you hear 'Rhapsody in Blue,' boom -- here's the blue fireworks."

"But," Goin said, "it's kind of hard when it's all patriotic music because you can't be doing red, white and blue for all 20 minutes. You have to listen to the music a little more closely."

Stiner said that the Park Service requested a longer finale, so the company has composed a four-minute crescendo this year compared with the slightly shorter ones of years past. Before the finale starts, about one large shell per second will be detonated. Then, during the first two minutes of the finale, about two will detonate per second. For two more minutes, four will detonate per second. In the last 30 seconds, 15 shells will explode per second. Some of those shells include 30 sub-munitions -- individual explosions that make up a single shell.

The shells themselves are 6-, 8- and 10-inch munitions. The industry rule of thumb is that one inch equals 100 feet of lift and 100 feet of airburst diameter, Stiner said. That means the 10-inch shells explode about 1,000 feet in the air

"That's a lot of pops," Stiner said.
