Re: Complaint against Madrid for Congress

Dear Mr. Norton:

We respectfully file this complaint against Madrid for Congress, the principal campaign committee for Patricia Madrid, a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives in New Mexico's First Congressional District. It appears that Patricia Madrid has violated federal campaign finance laws that prohibit the use of "soft money" in a federal election campaign. She also is continuing to violate federal law that prohibits federal candidates from directly or indirectly controlling "soft money" funds. Specifically in question is Madrid's association with a New Mexico state political action committee, Justice for America, and its likely role in funding her campaign for federal office with unregulated non-federal funds and her continuing control of non-federal funds while a candidate for federal office. The Commission has historically taken a dim view of the use of "soft money" resources in Federal elections. See MUR 5020 (Respondent Gormley for Senate Primary Election Fund, et al, total civil penalty of $115,000) and MUR 5573 (Respondent Westar Energy, Inc., et al, total civil penalty of $40,500).

I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

In 2003, Madrid, New Mexico's Attorney General, formed the state political action committee, Justice for America, a PAC created "to help women and minorities run for political office," according to a May 13th, 2006 Associated Press article. That same article makes clear that "Under federal regulations...it can't contribute to Madrid's campaign to unseat U.S. Rep. Heather Wilson." See Exhibit A. Madrid and Justice for America have been successful in raising many thousands of dollars in non-federal funds since its inception, through an aggressive fundraising campaign focused on targeting corporate interests, gambling interests, law firms from both inside New Mexico and around the country, and wealthy individuals. According to Justice for America's May 8th, 2006 financial disclosure, virtually all of its donors were wealthy lawyers, corporations or affluent businessmen, most of whom donated thousands of dollars, in excess of any federal limits. See Exhibit B. A large portion of the PAC's funding came from Stanley Fulton, the owner of Sunland Park racetrack and casino. His $100,000 donation accounted for a fifth of the committee's fundraising in the last year. See Exhibit A. Remarkably, according to an article by Jeff Jones, an Albuquerque Journal Politics writer, that donation came "just six weeks after Madrid [in her official capacity as Attorney General] officially objected to a proposed off-reservation casino" near Sunland Racetrack. See Exhibit C.

Since May 4th, 2005, Justice for America made $124,968.77 in expenditures, some of which seems to have benefited Madrid and her campaign for a seat on New Mexico's First Congressional District. Both before and after Madrid announced her candidacy to the local media (See Exhibit D) on October 14th, 2005 and filed with the Commission (See Exhibit E) on October 18th, 2005, Justice for America expended money for Madrid's travel expenses and reimbursement, postage, computer and other supplies. Justice for America's state financial disclosure report also showed significant payments to consulting firm Lake, Snell, Perry & Mermin for polling and surveys, the same firm that Madrid's campaign would later pay to perform similar surveys several months after she declared candidacy. See Exhibit B.

In Madrid's 2005 year end financial disclosure report, her first disclosure report filed with the Commission, there is no reference to any contributions from Justice for America. However, more recently, in Madrid's Pre-primary financial disclosure Schedule D, there is an $80.00 debt listed to Justice for America for "photography." See Exhibit F. Madrid continues to control Justice for America through her husband, L. Michael Messina, who is listed the PAC's President, as evidenced in Justice for America's May 8th, 2006 public filing. See Exhibit B.

II. APPLICABLE LAW

Federal law prohibits the solicitation and use of non-federal funds by federal candidates and federal officeholders, including agents acting on their behalf and entities that are directly or indirectly established, maintained, financed or controlled by one or more federal candidate or officeholder. 11 CFR § 300.60 and 300.61. Under the Act and Commission regulations, federal candidates and officeholders can only solicit, receive, direct, transfer, spend or disburse federal funds in connection with a federal election or for federal election activity. 11 CFR § 300.61. When the McCain campaign finance reform was enacted, federal candidates and federal officeholders had to dissolve their non-federal PACs or terminate all relationships with them. Patricia Madrid has failed to do so.

III. ANALYSIS

Since May of 2005, Patricia Madrid has accepted significant support from her state PAC, Justice for America. She has been engaged in an apparent pattern of behavior of using resources raised outside the bounds of federal election law for her federal candidacy. For example:

- Justice for America made approximately $17,000 in payments to Lake, Snell, Perry & Mermin from June 29th, 2005 to September 15th, 2005 for “Consultants,” a “Survey,” and “Travel Expenses,” exactly a month before Madrid officially declared her candidacy and registered with the Commission. These payments are suspiciously close in time proximity to Madrid’s declaration of candidacy and for purposes strikingly similar to those of a federally-regulated “testing the waters” operation. What exactly were these payments and who did they benefit? Did Justice for America help fund a shadowy “testing the waters” effort on Madrid’s behalf? Did questions asked in these “surveys” relate to a campaign for Congress? If so, Madrid has violated federal law prohibiting the use of non-federal “soft money” for a federal election.
- Although public statements maintain that Justice for America went dormant after Madrid declared her candidacy for Congress, this is contradicted by Justice for America’s own public filings. In fact, as recent as April 21st, 2006, there are reimbursement payments to Justice for America for over $6,000 and as recent as January 17th, 2006, there are direct disbursements from the state PAC to Lake, Snell, Perry & Mermin for “Conference calls.” (See Exhibit B). Furthermore, Madrid’s own pre-primary financial disclosure filed with the Commission (after she declared candidacy) lists a debt of $80.00 to Justice for America for “photography.” See Exhibit F. McCain-Feingold prohibits federal candidates from raising, directing or controlling non-federal, “soft” dollars. Because Justice for America has clearly not gone dormant, has Madrid, as its founder, violated these restrictions? Did Madrid have any role in the soliciting or directing of these funds after she declared her candidacy?
- Even if the state PAC did go dormant, there would still remain the issue of control—just because the PAC would be inactive, it would not put Madrid outside the realm of “control,” as that term is used in federal election law. Public filings by Justice for America report that Patricia Madrid’s husband, L. Michael Messina, is the President/Chairperson of her “soft money” PAC.
- Perhaps most troubling is that if Madrid did in fact violate federal election laws prohibiting the solicitation and use of “soft money,” she did so not only as a federal candidate, but also as New Mexico’s highest ranked government attorney as the state’s Attorney General.

IV. CONCLUSION

In light of Madrid's apparent attempt to skirt federal laws prohibiting the use and control of "soft money" by a candidate in a federal election campaign, we respectfully request that the Commission investigate Patricia Madrid and her compliance with the law, and penalize her accordingly.

Respectfully,

Senator Pete Domenici

BYLINE: By BARRY MASSEY, Associated Press Writer

DATELINE: SANTA FE

BODY:

A gambling industry executive and lawyers with firms that do business with the state were top contributors during the past year to a political committee affiliated with Attorney General Patricia Madrid.

Stanley Fulton, owner of the Sunland Park racetrack and casino, contributed $100,000 last August to Madrid's committee, Justice for America Inc. That accounted for a fifth of the committee's fundraising during the past year. Fulton gave $25,000 to Madrid's committee in January 2005.

Lawyers, some with firms that have contracts to represent the state in lawsuits, were a major source of contributions to the committee, which is separate from a campaign committee financing Madrid's bid for an Albuquerque-area congressional seat.

Lawyers with a San Diego-based law firm contributed $95,500 to Madrid's Justice for America committee. The individual contributions ranged from $18,500 to $500. The firm has a contract with the state for legal action over securities fraud and investment losses.

Lawyers with that firm Lerach, Coughlin, Stoia, Geller, Rudman and Robbins also have contributed at least $56,900 to Madrid's congressional campaign.

Lawyers with the New York firm of Labaton, Sucharow & Rudoff, which is one of several firms with contracts for securities fraud work, gave $30,500 to the Justice for America committee.

Bill Robins, a partner in a Houston firm that also has offices in New Mexico, contributed $25,000 to Madrid's committee as did Turner Branch, an Albuquerque lawyer.

The firm of Heard, Robins, Cloud, Lubel & Greenwood teamed with another firm and the Branch Law Firm of Albuquerque in receiving a contract for securities fraud lawsuits. They represent the state Investment Council and state pension funds.

The state contracted with the firms after a competitive bidding process. The firms were reviewed and recommended by a committee made up of representatives of the Investment Council, the Educational Retirement Board and the Public Employees Retirement Association.

Madrid said last year that she wasn't part of the evaluation group although her office signed the contracts with the firms. If the firms succeed in lawsuits, they can ask the court to award attorneys fees and costs. The state isn't obligated to pay the attorneys fees of the firms.

Madrid's committee received $491,127 in contributions from May 2005 through the start of this month. It spent $124,969 and had a balance of $492,520 as of May 1.

Other top contributors to the committee:

F. Kenneth Bailey, a Houston lawyer, $25,000.

Fred and Lisa Baron, Dallas, $25,000. He the founder of a Dallas law firm and a former president of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America.

Sunray Gaming, the operator of a Farmington race track and casino, $10,000.

Jerry Perenchio Living Trust, Los Angeles, $10,000. Perenchio is president of Univision, the nation's largest Spanish language television network and media conglomerate. He is major campaign contributor to Gov. Bill Richardson.

Joseph Boyle, a San Francisco lawyer, $15,000.

Madrid established the committee in 2003. It is known as a "527" political organization because of a section of the federal tax code that provides for its tax-exempt status. Madrid has said that one of the purposes of the committee is to help more women run for political office.

The committee's expenditures during the past year included travel expenses for Madrid, consultant services and donations to some candidates and organizations, including the Hispanic Women's Council and the New Mexico Council on Crime and Delinquency. Nearly all the spending occurred before Madrid announced last October that she would run for the 1st Congressional District seat held by Republican Heather Wilson. Madrid and Wilson have no primary election opponents.

BODY:

Sunland Park horse track and casino owner Stan Fulton ponied up a $100,000 contribution to a political committee formed by Attorney General Patricia Madrid about six weeks after Madrid officially objected to a proposed offreservation tribal casino nearby.

Fulton is a bitter opponent of the southern New Mexico casino pushed by Jemez Pueblo and Santa Fe art dealer Jerry Peters and views it as a serious competitor. But he said Friday that Madrid's position on the proposal had nothing to do with his contribution.

A spokeswoman for Madrid said her record shows political contributions have never had any influence over her official acts.

In any event, the political action committee is out of the running for now.

Justice for America showed a bank balance of just under $493,000 in finance reports filed earlier this week. But federal election rules required Madrid to put the political action committee on hold while she runs for Congress, Madrid's campaign manager said Friday.

The PAC was formed in 2003 to assist women and minority political candidates, said the manager, Caroline Buerkle. Federal rules say the group's money cannot be used to help Madrid in her 1st Congressional District run against incumbent Republican Rep. Heather Wilson.

"Once she announced she was a federal candidate in October, the PAC became dormant," Buerkle said. "She is prohibited federally from touching it."

Buerkle said Justice for America can't begin to work and use its money until one of two things happens - Madrid loses in the November general election or retires from Congress.

The contribution from Fulton dwarfs the campaign account balances of many New Mexico statewide political candidates. Fulton also gave the PAC $25,000 in January 2005.

The $100,000 donation was logged on Aug. 1, 2005.

In mid-June, Madrid's office wrote a letter to the Bureau of Indian Affairs warning that approval of the Jemez project could open the floodgates for casino gambling expansion.

27044162077

"To grant such a request would introduce a new strategy to expand gaming in New Mexico," Madrid wrote.

The project would require approvals from the U.S. Interior secretary and Gov. Bill Richardson.

The Jemez/Peters proposal for a casino near Anthony has been the subject of bitter political infighting, with both sides lobbying public officials.

Fulton has said he would rescind his bequest of half ownership in Sunland Park to New Mexico State University - a gift estimated at $10 million a year - if the project is approved.

In a brief telephone interview Friday, Fulton said his donation to Justice for America had nothing to do with Madrid's stance against the Jemez/Peters casino.

Fulton said an organization of western states' attorneys general have for years been opposed to off-reservation casinos.

"I met with Patsy. She mentioned this PAC, and I thought it was worthwhile," said Fulton, who lives in Las Vegas, Nev.

The Justice for America finance report lists pages of contributions that rolled in before mid-October, when Madrid announced her Democratic candidacy for the congressional nomination.

A long list of attorneys wrote checks: Santa Fe lawyer Bill Robins and Houston attorney F. Kenneth Bailey each contributed $25,000, as did Fredrick M. Baron and Lisa A. Baron of Dallas.

Qwest Communications kicked in $7,500 and a political group related to the Public Service Company of New Mexico donated $5,000.

One role of the attorney general's office is to represent New Mexico business and residential ratepayers in Public Regulation Commission rate hearings involving companies such as Qwest and PNM.

Expenditure reports from Justice for America show that before the group became dormant, it wrote checks to some New Mexico candidates. Among its larger expenditures was a $5,000 contribution to Hispanic New York City mayoral hopeful Fernando Ferrer.

Justice for America reported more than $13,000 in travel expenses in June. Buerkle said those expenses covered a Madrid trip to Harvard University, where she had been invited to attend a weeklong program about women in government.

BODY:

WASHINGTON - New Mexico Attorney General Patricia Madrid announced today she will run against Rep. Heather Wilson, and she came out swinging.

Madrid said the Albuquerque Republican is part of an "unholy alliance" with President Bush and former House Majority Leader Tom DeLay. Madrid, a Democrat, said their actions have led to deficit spending, higher gas prices and more jobs lost to overseas.

"I intend to seek election to Congress, because change is desperately needed in Washington," Madrid said in a statement.

She plans to file with the Federal Election Commission next week and make an announcement later.

A spokeswoman for Wilson, Jane Altwies, declined a direct response to Madrid, saying Wilson is focusing on her duties.

For months, Democratic congressional leaders have encouraged Madrid to run, saying she has a chance to knock off Wilson in a district that is one of the most competitive in the country.

Madrid, meanwhile, has run public service announcements on methamphetamine labs and payday loans, and she has issued press releases on issues before Congress such as the Violence Against Women Act.

Wilson has attempted to distance herself from Republican leaders on issues including ethics rules and Medicaid.

Madrid's statement indicates the Democratic strategy is to tie Wilson to DeLay, who was recently indicted on campaign finance-related charges in Texas, and Bush, whose favorability rating dropped to 39 percent in one recent poll.

"She's been an apologist for the Bush administration," said New Mexico Democratic Party Chairman John Wertheim.

Madrid will be hurt because of her failure to investigate indicted State Treasurer Robert Vigil, said state Republican Party Executive Director Marta Kramer.
